

and the Research Society for American Periodicals
(RSAP)

PROUDLY ANNOUNCE A

$1000 Article Prize

For the best article on American periodicals by a pre-tenure or independent scholar published in a peer-reviewed academic journal with a publication date during 2011. Two runners up will receive $500 each from RSAP.

The third annual ProQuest-RSAP Article Prize will be awarded at the American Literature Association (ALA) conference in San Francisco, CA. May 24-27, 2012. Articles will be judged by a committee of three scholars appointed by the RSAP Advisory Board. The winner and two runners up will be notified by the end of January 2012 and will be featured as panelists on an RSAP-sponsored distinguished papers panel at ALA.

Applicants are invited to submit an electronic copy of their articles together with a registration form available at <www.periodicalresearch.org>. Send in .doc, .docx, or PDF format to the committee's chair, Eric Gardner <gardner@svsu.edu> (please substitute @ for at) by December 16, 2011.

All copies should be formatted for blind review and thus without identifying references or title. Applicants for the ProQuest-RSAP Article Prize must be current members of RSAP when they submit their work.

Become a member of Research Society for American Periodicals by subscribing to American Periodicals
<http://americanperiodicals.osu.edu/>.

Questions & Submissions? Contact Prize Committee Chair, Eric Gardner, at

Dr. Eric Gardner
Department of English
Saginaw Valley State University
7400 Bay Road
University Center, Michigan 48710
<gardner@svsu.edu> (please substitute @ for at)

Highlights

- ◆ RSAP encourages submissions from individual authors as well as from journal editors
- ◆ Submissions are not limited to work utilizing electronic databases
- ◆ Winners must agree to register for and attend ALA 2012
- ◆ Deadline: December 16, 2011